What's New in the Periodic Table Of The Elements?

Lastnightsenior (PRNewsFoto/AmberJ Technologies) (PRNewsFoto/AmberJ Technologies) Nashville, TN (PRWEB) June 13, 2010 (PRNewsFoto/AmberJ Technologies) AmberJ Technologies, Inc., a leading provider of multi-vendor interoperability solutions for mobile and Web-based applications, today announced that it has been named a silver winner in the Best of Web Design category in the 2010 Pr Web Awards. The Pr Web Awards are the world's first awards program recognizing excellence in Web design and usability. As part of its winning Web design submission, AmberJ Technologies was selected for its innovative Web site design and its ability to set a new standard for usability on the Web. "We are very proud of this award's acknowledgement of our dedication to improving usability on the Web," said Peter Rittich, Chief Technology Officer of AmberJ Technologies. "AmberJ Technologies focuses on delivering the most useful, effective and usable multi-vendor interoperability solutions for today's Web applications, and this is a reflection of the long-term partnerships we have with our customers and partners." The Pr Web Awards winners were selected by a panel of expert judges from leading print and web publications, Web design and usability consultants, and leading industry analysts. "Since its inception, the Pr Web Awards have been recognized for providing real substance to a Web awards program that has, in the past, been criticized as lacking," said Michele Clarke, Chairperson of the Pr Web Awards. "And with its latest winners, the Pr Web Awards has demonstrated once again that it recognizes and rewards excellence in Web design and usability in the Web, print and mobile space." This year's finalists included a range of Web sites from the following categories: Category: Best of Web Design Description: The Pr Web Awards are the world's first awards program recognizing excellence in Web design and usability.
